Admissions 2012-2013 Golden Gate Feng Shui School

GGFSS attracts an international student body of undergraduates, college graduates, and professionals seeking to enhance their career. Students represent diverse age groups with various cultural backgrounds and a rich range in previous fields of study. From acupuncture to architecture, the prior experience students bring to the school creates a dynamic student body.

Golden Gate Feng Shui School selects students who have a sincere interest in serving others. Our most successful students are prepared for their TCFS education with well-developed study skills and a solid financial plan including personal savings, family sponsorship, and/or part-time employment to support their TCFS studies.

Applicants will be reviewed for admission on a rolling basis every trimester through the written application, interview, and review by the Admissions Committee. GGFSS admits students without discrimination on the basis of race, gender, ethnicity, national origin, religion, sexual orientation or age.

At Golden Gate Feng Shui School, you will acquire the knowledge and skills of TCFS from many highly qualified and experienced instructors. Your education here will focus on a shared vision of facilitating the health and harmony of individuals and communities. Berkeley is the home of numerous world renowned schools. This climate of academia along with the mild, pristine weather makes studying feng shui in Berkeley a natural choice.

Statement of Purpose

We are excited to get to know you better. Please address all of the following questions on one to three type-written pages:

Tell us about yourself! Please write a brief statement about your life and what led you to apply to GGFSS. Include significant life events such as personal, educational, and professional experiences, as well as specific interests.

Describe your experience with feng shui (if applicable).

Describe your personal and professional goals and how you intend to utilize your feng shui training.

GGFSS combines community-based learning with intensive self-discovery and academics. Describe your experience, strengths and challenges in the areas of community-learning (collectively studying with your peers) and self-study discipline (taking initiative and completing assignments).

This program requires a keen listening ability and attention to detail. Following directions and completing assignments as well as taking responsibility for your participation in the program are all part of one's path to embracing this body of knowledge. Please discuss how comfortable you feel in these areas, what you are still working on, and your commitment to taking responsibility for your own learning experience.
